

ACUMEN CONSULTANCY & TRAINING LTD

Acumen was formed in 1995, and registered as a Limited Company in 2003. Since then we have worked steadily delivering 'people skills' learning and development to a wide range of clients. Our major clients have included BUPA, The Royal Albert Hall, Alstom Power, The Royal Festival hall, ABB, Transport for London, Anchor Homes, the Construction Industry Training Board. We are currently working with Bradford University School of Management to design and deliver joint modular leadership programmes.

Since 2009 we have worked extensively with Airbus Group Companies and AirBusiness Academy, delivering management and leadership training to individuals. We have also worked with over 120 operational, design and manufacturing teams in Airbus, Space and Defence and Airbus Military.

OPERATIONAL SCOPE

We are a modern networked company with an office base in Stratford-upon-Avon. We have teams of training associates in the UK, France, Germany and the USA, and design and deliver programmes in French, English and German.

Our programmes are totally transportable. We are currently delivering training in the UK, France, China, Singapore, India and Spain. Our working model is very experiential, with supporting theory where appropriate. Our team development programmes are innovative and individually designed to help teams achieve operational and business success. They are not theoretical but very experiential.

We are experimental and innovative in the design of the projects that we use to engage and motivate, and have a proven ability to deliver experiential team inputs into connecting events for groups of up to 350.

WHY SHOULD YOU WORK WITH US?

We use the best technology, the most experienced trainers with international experience and design programmes to accurately reflect our clients needs. We focus on quality at all levels. Our programmes are also realistically priced.
